EDITORIAL COMMENT

Third-Rate Colleges

What are the characteristics of the third-rate colleges of this country? Two articles in the June 16 issue of Saturday Review offer some criteria by which these inferior institutions may be identified.

The first article, by a pseudonymous professor (A. Lament) in such a college and entitled "The Graves of Academe", offers the following list:

§ An inadequate library. "A college on the ragged edge of respectability has in its library 60 to 100 volumes per student." The poor ones are below this. Subscriptions for periodicals depend on their popularity, not their scholarly value.

§ Inferior undergraduates. "A graph of their scholastic achievement sags ominously at its weaker end, a sag populated not merely by the uneducated but by the uneducable as well. . . . Not only are colleges highly inefficient as sociological vats for aging and mellowing the raw by-products of society, but large numbers of poor students have a deleterious effect on good ones, not to mention their professors, and the cost of subsidizing education for bad students is exorbitant."

§ Small proportion of Ph.D.'s on the faculty. "The ratio is significant not merely because Ph.D.'s usually have more learning to impart, but because they tend to gravitate to and remain at better schools. Though there are notable exceptions, generally when such a ratio falls below half, a college begins to slide toward academic limbo."

§ Vocationalism. "Students are encouraged not to learn how to write but how to compose business letters, not philosophy but salesmanship. It is assumed that education is something which happens to a person in his first twenty-five years of life and that when education is over, students should have been made so commercially attractive that they will be able to compete in the job market. Study of the humanities, which presupposes that education is a life-long occupation, is much undervalued and often criticized precisely because it can be so difficult a study for those interested mainly in learning a trade."

§ Unbalanced curriculum, in which the courses offered by the departments of education, physical education, and business exceed the total given in, say, anthropology, political science, philosophy, German, Spanish, French, chemistry, physics, mathematics, economics, and history.

§ Bustling staff of activity directors and counselors. "Students are counseled when they play, when they work, when they study, as well as when they go crazy. . . . No one is called stupid any more. That is undemocratic. Inadequacies are psychogenic and capable of being tuned out if counselors can get a hold on the right knobs."

In the same issue of Saturday Review, under "The Editor's Bookshelf", there is a discussion of a book The Profane Comedy by Kenneth E. Eble. Professor Eble describes the inhabitants of the academic Limbo in the following words: "These colleges, usually small ones, located in areas where small towns dot the country-side, have little money with which to compete with the larger, better-endowed, or state supported schools. Faculties are secured at the lowest possible rates, and incompetence is tolerated to a higher degree than is consistent with high standards. Their educational philosophy is one which permits piety, loyalty, and devotion to substitute for intellectual effort, discipline, and accomplishment. They tend to drive out the young and keep the old. At the heart of many of them there lurks the suspicion that the intellect is inevitably corrupting." Most of the colleges assigned to Limbo by Professor Eble appear to be church-related, liberal arts colleges with enrollments under 500.

It will be noted that Hampden-Sydney falls neatly into this last category. It is also located in a rural area, and might be considered as having some difficulty in competing financially with state and richly endowed schools. Does it then qualify as a third-rate college, likewise to be consigned to Limbo?

In answering the question, perhaps it would be more profitable to consider the rather definite criteria of Professor "Lament", as outlined above, rather than the more generalized views attributed to Professor Eble.

§ Library. Based on a collection of 50,000 books and a student body of approximately 500 for this year, the ratio of books to students is 100 to 1. Though numerically this is a small library, it will be seen that it puts Hampden-Sydney into the area of respectability. The periodicals seem properly chosen and balanced.

§ Undergraduates. Neither the top nor the bottom of the scholastic scale is overloaded at Hampden-

Sydney. The students seem to be bunched more in the middle, with a slight preponderance on the favorable side. However, there are too many who drop out or are dropped out of college for failure to meet Hampden-Sydney standards. The college situation is not what it was a generation or two generations ago. The competition for excellence among schools is much more pressing. A college cannot today afford to accept unpromising students merely because they are "good fellows" or need help or are sons of the right people. Such policy is fair neither to the boy nor to the college.

§ Proportion of Ph.D.'s. Seventy per cent of the teaching faculty at Hampden-Sydney hold earned doctorates. The national average is 31 per cent; in private colleges and universities it is 36 per cent. Hampden-Sydney fares well in securing and keeping faculty.

§ Vocationalism. Diametrically opposite from the Hampden-Sydney theory of education. Study of the humanities is encouraged by curriculum requirements and by the tradition of nearly two centuries.

§ Curriculum. Unbalanced only in favor of the humanities, science, and social studies. No courses in "education" at present; one course in physical education; the only courses in business come within the courses in economics.

§ Activity directors and counselors. The Guidance Center at Hampden-Sydney does a careful and needed work, and is not obtrusive.

Ergo: Although Hampden-Sydney is church-related, concentrates on the liberal arts, has an enrollment just at 500, is situated in the countryside, and needs more endowment, by the more objective standards outlined above it is not third-rate. Did modesty not stand in the way, we should use the term first-rate. In fact, we shall anyhow.

Dr. Newman's Retirement

Upon the announcement of the retirement of Dr. Walter Stevenson Newman as president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, the Honorable J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., then governor of Virginia, commented: "Dr. Newman is one of the most able and profound educators who ever served the cause of higher education in Virginia. His great vision and his fine sense of dedication have made him a great servant to the Commonwealth." This statement suggests the qualities of leadership and attributes of character which all friends of Dr. Newman have recognized throughout his entire career. He is indeed one of Hampden-Sydney's most distinguished alumni. Perhaps it would be fitting to review for The Record some of the outstanding achievements of this public servant.

Dr. Newman was inaugurated as president of VPI in 1949, having served as acting president since May, 1947, when President John R. Hutcheson became ill. He had been at the institution for one year in the capacity of vice-president and was, prior to that time, Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction. It was felt at that time that Dr. Newman was thoroughly conversant with educational needs of the state and that he possessed marked administrative ability. He was ably fitted to measure up to the high standard of presidents who had heretofore led the institution. When Dr. Newman was inaugurated as president in 1949, editors throughout the state were high in their praise and endorsement of his selection. Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, wrote: ". . . Walter Newman has demonstrated that he has the ability and the personality to discharge the duties of the presidency, and to carry this invaluable institution on to an even wider usefulness than it now offers to the Commonwealth. The ceremonies at Blacksburg today, attended by distinguished figures in the field of education and public life, are a deserved tribute to a man whose record is impressive, but whose most important work lies before him."

Indeed, Mr. Dabney's prophetic words came true. During Dr. Newman's administration, the enrollment more than doubled; more degrees were granted than in all other administrations combined; the physical plant had the greatest growth in the history of the institution—dormitory space doubled and more than twenty major buildings were constructed; the academic stature of the college was greatly enhanced and many new academic programs instituted. The Roanoke World News summumarized his administration in these words: "When he rounds out fifteen years as president, he will have seen $20 million spent on Tech, some $12 million of it in the last six years. To say that he has been a dedicated man is putting it mildly. . . . The World News salutes Dr. Newman for the tremendous job he has done, not only for VPI, but for Virginia." These are some of the tangibles, but even more important was the impact of Dr. Newman's fine personality and character upon the institution.

Dr. Newman will remain on the campus, as president emeritus, in a consulting capacity and, in his own words, "will try to get in some reading and look to filling some gaps in the history of this institution. . . . and, for a couple of months, I'm going to make the best loafer you ever saw."

In an unscheduled part of the graduation exercises in June, Dr. Newman was presented with a handsomely-bound copy of letters, a desk and chair, a beautifully hand-lettered and framed Scroll of Appreciation from the faculty and administration, and a handsome desk lamp, pen and desk set. Attached to the latter was a Class of 1962 ring with the suitably engraved acknowledgment, stating that Dr. Newman had been made an honorary member.

Thus, with the love and affection of students, friends, faculty, and alumni, Dr. Newman begins his years of useful retirement. Hampden-Sydney would join with these others in expressing gratitude for his years of service, and wishing him many more years of useful endeavor.

Why Students "Achieve"

A year-long study by the University of Rochester College of Education on "underachievers" and "achievers" in high school turned up the following reasons given by the achievers for their willingness to work for academic success: "strong pressures from parents", the necessity for winning college scholarships, "a need to feel superior".

The disturbing thing is, as James Cass pointed out in the August 18 Saturday Review, that "the pure pleasure of learning, apparently, plays no more of a role in the success of the achievers than in the failure of the underachievers."

How many Hampden-Sydney students, past and present, can lay claim to that Aristotelian thrill, "the pure pleasure of learning"? Well, the answer is not all negative. We can cite a number of alumni who have continued to learn for pleasure in the midst of busy professional or business lives.

The Hub of Virginia

Hampden-Sydney has not yet attempted to rival the claim of Boston (Boston, Massachusetts, that is) that it is the Hub of the Universe. It could not even be classified as the Hub of the United States, or even the hubbub. But it does come close to being the Hub of Virginia.

Recent information from the United States Geological Survey indicates that the geographical center of the state is located at 78 degrees, 37.5 minutes longitude and 37 degrees, 30.6 minutes latitude. These readings place the center in Buckingham County, two miles south and a half-mile west of Mt. Rush. Mt. Rush, located at the junction of U. S. 60 and state Rt. 24, is approximately 23 miles northwest of Hampden-Sydney as the buzzard sees it.

Hampden-Sydney seems to be tucked away in its own little enclave, isolated from the busy-ness of the world. No one ever just passes through. A visit has to be purposed. But for access to and from all spots in Virginia there are few more convenient spots. This has not served to make Hampden-Sydney a great convention center, but it has been of advantage to its residents, students, faculty, or others who must needs travel to meetings or sports events about the state.

In the eighteenth century the geographical center of Virginia may have been elsewhere. Yet the founders of Hampden-Sydney who in 1774-1775 picked the site of the college, whether moved by the accident of circumstance or the genius of foresight, hit upon the logical location for their school.

Interesting Items

► Americans need to retire the unsound and expensive concept that a college is a place where one learns "to get along with others" and to develop social contacts and graces, according to Dr. William Graham Cole, president of Lake Forest College in Illinois. He proposes that colleges call for a drastic curtailment of extracurricular activities on the part of the undergraduates. The cultivated mind, he believes, will seek its own level in the world and does not need to be taught the social graces.

► "Why, with all of our obvious assets, do we not equal the men of the Renaissance in a great variety of productions? . . . The fundamental trouble lies in our philosophy. We, in our popular philosophy, do not really believe in excellence. We believe in mediocrity. If you don't think that this is true, try studying the TV programs of the big networks and see what is offered in a single week. . . . If we are to have a Renaissance again, we must recover the philosophy of the Renaissance which stresses the idea that man is free to excel if he will. . . . The most natural place to start is a college."

—ELTON TRUEBLOOD, Professor of Philosophy
Earlham College

► "It is not probable that war will ever absolutely cease until science discovers some destroying force so simple in its administration, so horrible in its effects, that all art, all gallantry, will be at an end, and battles will be massacres which the feelings of mankind will be unable to endure."

—W. WINWOOD READE (1872)

Winston Hall

With the opening of college in September, Winston Hall went into service as the new dining hall and student activities center. Named for the late Dr. James Henry Curry Winston, '94, professor of chemistry and geology from 1899 to 1949, it beautifully provides facilities long needed at Hampden-Sydney.

Winston Hall is the old library building, with an extensive addition at the rear. What was the handsome reading room, together with the stack room, now constitutes the main T-shaped dining area, seating 332 persons (as against 240 in Venable Hall). The two offices at either side of the front entrance have been converted into lounges. The Rare Book Room and the Hampden-Sydney Room, which opened off the balcony, have been joined to provide a small dining room, the Patrick Henry Room.

For general use, the main entrances are located amidships on either side of the structure, with the east entry intended primarily for those who arrive on foot and the west entry for those who zoom in by automobile. On that side there is a parking lot which will accommodate sixty-four cars.

Inside the entrance vestibules on the ground floor level there is a connecting corridor lined with shelves and hooks for the deposit of books and coats. From there one proceeds up the stairs to the dining facilities on the main floor.

There are two cafeteria serving lines to the rear of the dining area, and behind these is the modern, fully-equipped kitchen.

With the expanded room and facilities, students are now offered a choice of entrées for lunch and supper. The evening meal also offers a choice of vegetables, beverages, breads, salads, and desserts from among several selections. Seconds of entrées and desserts are not available until all students have been served.

When a student has finished his meal, he carries his tray back to the dish window on his way out. This window is located between the two serving lines in the corridor separating the serving and dining areas.

The Patrick Henry Room, located off the balcony at the front, provides à la carte service for students and faculty and their guests.

In addition, there is a banquet room on the ground floor, named in honor of William Henry Harrison, Class of 1791. It will accommodate fifty diners.

Directly across a hall from the Harrison Room is the recreational lounge, providing billiards, table tennis, television, card tables, and lounge areas. It is open from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 8 to 11 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays, and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. There is a charge of one cent per minute per table for use of the pool tables, but the other equipment is available free of charge.

The Book Cellar, the paperback book store heretofore located in the basement of Graham Hall, now adjoins the recreational lounge.

The second floor of the new addition at the rear contains offices for The Tiger and The Kaleidoscope, a photography dark room, a student government room for use of the Honor Council and the Student Assembly, an office for the student body president, an acoustically engineered glee club room holding seventy persons, and a seminar room available to the various student organizations for meetings.

The dining hall, with its high, rounded windows and blue décor, is a beautiful room. In keeping with its appointments, proper dress is expected at all meals. This includes dress shirts and ties at the evening meals and coats and ties for special occasions.

Prof. Simpson Joins English Department

The latest addition to the Hampden-Sydney faculty is Hassell A. Simpson, who comes as associate professor of English.

Professor Simpson is a graduate of Clemson College (B.S., 1952) and holds the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Florida State University. His doctoral thesis was on William Faulkner. He has been teaching at Auburn University since 1959.

More Records Given to Listening Room

Station WGH, of Norfolk-Newport News, through Raymond B. Bottom, Jr., '51, has given the College a number of good recordings for the Metcalf Listening Room in the Library. In the group are Six Sonatas for Violin and Harpsichord by Bach, Four Concerti by Vivaldi, Violin Sonatas by Beethoven, The Virtuoso Recorder, Gilbert and Sullivan Overtures, Duets with Victoria de Los Angeles and Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Cello Concerti by Lalo and Saint-Saëns, Spanish Songs of the Renaissance, sung by Victoria de Los Angeles, and Twentieth Century Music for String Orchestra. Most of the recordings are stereophonic.

The College is grateful to Mr. Bottom and WGH for this gift. Added to earlier collections received from Station WFLO in Farmville, from the Glee Club, and from Mrs. John C. Metcalf, they furnish Hampden-Sydney students with much good material for musical and literary enjoyment and study. The listening room is reported to be one of the most frequented areas of the Eggleston Library, with students playing records on an average of eight or ten hours a day.

Summer Was Full of Building

The past summer witnessed an unusually large amount of building activity at Hampden-Sydney: the completion of Winston Hall, where dining and other student activities now center; the remodeling of the old Commons in Venable Hall as a lounge and meeting place; three new faculty houses; a new Lambda Chi Alpha house; conversion of the old one into another faculty home; a new residence build by Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Skidmore; and a new press box at the football field.

The new fraternity house is located at the northeastern curve of Fraternity Circle, beyond the Sigma Chi House, which is beyond the Kappa Sigma house, which is beyond.

The three new faculty houses, all ranch-style, are located in three different areas: one at the south end of the village on College Road beyond the Reeds; another on Atkinson Avenue between Mrs. D. C. Wilson and Mrs. A. J. Terrell; and the third on Via Sacra Inferior between Professor H. B. Overcash and Mrs. Elizabeth Schaible. These homes are occupied respectively by the Seldens (mathematics), the Fultons (football), and the Walters (Bible). The Ortners (guidance center) have moved into the old Lambda Chi Alpha house.

The Skidmore house stands to the rear of the MacFarland property on Via Sacra. Mr. Skidmore is a junior at Hampden-Sydney.

In addition, the College has acquired the Gammon house, which is located at the north entrance to the campus. The Simpsons (English) live here. Mrs. E. G. Gammon has moved to Farmville.

The new press box, built of brick, is about where the old wooden one was, in the pretty curve of road above Death Valley.

In addition to the new lounge in Venable Hall, formerly the main dining hall, the auxiliary rooms were converted into additional dormitory space, while the kitchen area was made over into an apartment for a married student and his wife.

The Chi Phi house has undergone considerable interior remodeling.

New Faculty Houses

Six new houses for faculty and staff have been built at Hampden-Sydney during the summers of 1961 and 1962. Five of the six are shown on this page.

Earlier, three houses were built in 1957. Two more were added by purchase this summer.

Despite this continued expansion of housing facilities, the need always seems to outrun the available houses. Several members of the faculty are living in the suburbs of Hampden-Sydney, in Farmville or elsewhere.

Enrollment Passes 500

For the first time Hampden-Sydney passed the 500-mark when September registrations brought the number of students enrolled up to 504, 34 more than a year ago. Of these, 151 were new men, also a record.

For some years enrollment has been limited by capacity. During the past summer 27 additional beds were made available when eleven rooms were converted into dormitory space. Ten of these were in Venable Hall, one in Graham. The removal of the eating facilities to the new Winston Hall was an important factor, since it released for conversion areas occupied by two small dining rooms.

The main dining area has been remodeled as a lounge, handsomely furnished by the Parents and Friends.

Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation Makes Gift

Hampden-Sydney College has received a gift of $25,000 from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation, Incorporated, Reynolda, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The gift is to be used toward the construction of a science building. This is the largest gift the College has received to date designated for the proposed science building.

Following completion of the Joseph D. Eggleston Library in 1961 and Winston Hall, the student activities building and dining hall, in 1962, emphasis is now being placed on a new science building and construction will begin as soon as funds are available. The additional facilities made possible by such a building will enable Hampden-Sydney to continue its leadership in the field of science.

Appointment of Trustees

A GROUP OF TRUSTEES AT THEIR JUNE MEETING

The following men were appointed to the Board of Trustees of Hampden-Sydney by the Synod of Virginia, meeting at Massanetta Springs June 26-27: Frank C. Bedinger, '05, lawyer of Boydton, Va.; Robert S. Brenaman, '26, president of Harris-Brenaman Sporting Goods Company of Richmond; Dr. Frank D. Costenbader, '26, ophthalmologist of Washington, D. C.; Robert W. Lawson, Jr., '30, lawyer of Charleston, W. Va.; and Dr. Robert C. Vaughan, Jr., '40, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Petersburg, Va.

These men will serve for a five-year term. At the same time William J. Erwin, president of the Dan River Mills of Danville, Va., was appointed for a four-year term to take the place of A. C. Carrington, '15, who has resigned.

Mr. Erwin and Dr. Vaughan are new appointees. Mr. Brenaman and Dr. Costenbader are former members of the Board, and Mr. Bedinger and Mr. Lawson were reappointed to serve a second consecutive term.

The Edward Herrman Cohn Book Fund

FABIAN BACHRACH

EDWARD HERRMAN COHN, '02

The Edward Herrman Cohn Book Fund has been established for the Eggleston Library by Mrs. Doris Maslin Cohn of Princess Anne, Maryland, as a memorial to her husband, a graduate of the class of 1902 (A.B. degree).

A substantial endowment has been set up to provide a continuing source of funds to be used to purchase books in the fields of religion, Bible, and religious history. Books included in this collection will be identified by a special memorial bookplate.

A life-long Presbyterian and an elder in the Old Manokin Church, Mr. Cohn's many interests included Presbyterian and Maryland history. His love for historical research led him to gather important data for the three historical societies to which he belonged: the Maryland Historical Society, the Virginia Historical Society, and the Presbyterian Historical Society of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Cohn has also presented from her husband's library valuable books dealing with church and secular history.

After the last war when Mr. Cohn retired from the lumber business, the Cohns moved from Maryland to Virginia Beach, where they lived for a number of years. Becoming homesick for their beloved Eastern Shore, they restored an 1805 house and moved back to Princess Anne not long before Mr. Cohn's death last year. Their daughter, Charlotte, is married to Mr. Otis Benson Davis, head of the English Department, Kent School, Kent, Connecticut.

Major General A. L. Tynes To Command Walter Reed Army Hospital

MAJOR GENERAL A. L. TYNES, '26

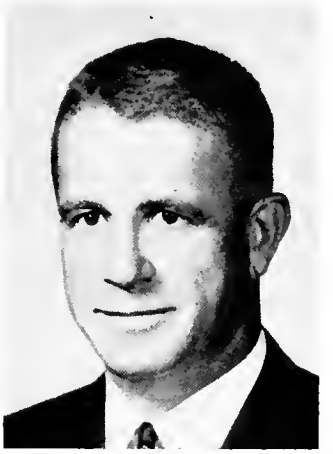
Major General A. L. Tynes, Medical Corps, United States Army, has been named to command the vast Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D. C. He began his duties there in early September.

Since August, 1960, General Tynes has been commanding general at the United States Army Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu. This was a return assignment to the hospital, in whose construction he played such an important part. As a senior member of an Army board, General Tynes first went to Honolulu in 1943 to choose the site for new Tripler. Returning to the Mainland, he supervised the planning and construction details with engineers and architects. In March, 1945, General Tynes returned to Hawaii as the personal representative of the Surgeon General during the construction of the new hospital. During this time, he also served as commander of "Old Tripler", located at Ft. Shafter.

A veteran of thirty-two years in the Army Medical Corps, General Tynes was selected for promotion to the permanent rank of major general in October, 1961, and his nomination for that rank was confirmed by the Senate in May, 1962. He received his B.S. degree from Hampden-Sydney in 1926 and was graduated from the University of Virginia School of Medicine in 1930.

The new command at Walter Reed Hospital is a complex of many medical units. Among them are the Walter Reed General Hospital, Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Army Central Dental Laboratory, Army Prosthetics Research Laboratory, and Army Ocular Research Unit.

Benjamin A. Soyars Receives Promotion



PUBLICITY CONSULTANTS, INC.

BENJAMIN A. SOYARS, '40

Benjamin A. Soyars, '40, has been promoted to the position of General Manager of the Richmond and Louisville factories of Philip Morris, Incorporated. Philip Morris manufactures Marlboro, Parliament, Alpine, Philip Morris, and Benson & Hedges cigarettes.

Mr. Soyars is a native of Richmond. He joined Philip Morris immediately upon his graduation from Hampden-Sydney. From 1949 to 1952, he was superintendent of Philip Morris' 20th Street factory in Richmond. In 1952 he became assistant to the Richmond Factories Manager, moving up to Richmond Factories Manager in 1955.

Mr. Soyars is a member of Hermitage Country Club, Richmond Gentry, Kanawha Recreational Association, the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, the Virginia Manufacturers Association and Kappa Sigma fraternity. He lives with his wife and two children at 207 Ralston Road in Richmond.

President Kennedy Congratulates Barter Theater's Robert Porterfield

President John F. Kennedy wired congratulations to Robert Porterfield, '28, producer-founder of the Barter Theater in Abingdon, upon the occasion of the annual Highland Arts and Crafts Festival in early August. This year marks the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Barter Theater.

The President's telegram, in part, reads, "I send my sincere congratulations. This unique enterprise shows us all that the best of theater, both old and new, finds a lively response among the people and meets a real need of the community. It has brought fresh laurels to the State of Virginia and served as a cultural beacon throughout the South."

Barter was founded 30 years ago this summer when Porterfield conceived the idea of bartering produce from the patrons for seats in the theater.

Since that year, Porterfield has produced more than 300 plays in Abingdon and on tour, and given approximately 1,500 actors a boost toward stardom. Distinguished alumni of the theater include Ernest Borgnine and Gregory Peck.

Barter Theater now is the oldest and largest professional theater company outside of New York and was the first to be supported by its home state.

This summer also has marked the first full season of an adjunct to Barter theater, the Barter playhouse. Situated in a remodeled chapel, the playhouse represents new and experimental offerings of the stage.

In addition to a double production schedule for this summer, Porterfield also has announced that Barter will begin this fall a full year of resident repertory for the first time in its history. Following a short vacation in September, the company will reopen the theater in October and will continue through the winter with modern and classic drama as well as plays for children.

Dr. Albert Lee Sturm, '33, Named Director at Florida State University

Dr. Albert Lee Sturm, '33, has been named director of the Institute of Governmental Research at Florida State University and began his work there in September.

For many years Dr. Sturm was professor of political science at West Virginia University. More recently he has been with the Institute of Public Administration at the University of Michigan, where he has conducted a case study of a Michigan constitutional convention then in session. He completed this work in August.

In addition to becoming director of the institute at Florida State, Dr. Sturm will also teach part time as a professor in the department of government.

Before going into college teaching, Dr. Sturm taught mathematics at Harpers Ferry High School. He married the former Miss Virginia Butts of Harpers Ferry.

Dr. Sturm has been identified with constitutional reform studies in both Michigan and West Virginia. He is the author of the book "Methods of State Constitutional Reform" and the co-author of "The Constitution and the Executive."

E. R. Young Writes Feature on Virginia

Edward R. Young, '40, has won widespread praise for his text "The Saga of Chet Bold" which, along with illustrations by Chick Larsen, constituted the special feature section of The Commonwealth, July issue.

Mr. Young is a staff writer for the Associated Press, and The Commonwealth is the magazine of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the article was to set forth many of the touristic attractions of Virginia in semi-humorous fashion as though described by a roving reporter for a national magazine. Luray, the Skyline Drive, Lexington, Natural Bridge, Charlottesville, Appomattox (Mr. Young's poem here is a masterpiece), Virginia Beach, Newport News, Jamestown, Williamsburg, Yorktown, Richmond, Fredericksburg, Manassas, and Mount Vernon are visited in that order.

Virginia itself is located "somewhat to the east of West Virginia, to the west of the Atlantic Ocean, and considerably to the right of the United States Supreme Court".

The Lynchburg Advance, praising the "witty, concise, accurate text by Ed Young", called the feature "just about as smooth and delightful a treatment of a potentially prosaic subject as we've ever run across . . . a model example, in our judgment, of a creative way to promote tourism."

Mr. Young's considerable literary ability was already manifest in college, where he was editor-in-chief of The Garnette, as the Hampden-Sydney literary magazine was then called, and associate editor of The Tiger his senior year. He was also class historian and a member of both the debate team and the Jongleurs (dramatic group) for four years. He was president of the latter his junior year. He was a member of ΟΔΚ, ΠΔΕ, ΤΚΑ, ΣΥ, and ΑΨΩ.

Marshall Doswell Joins Springs Cotton Mills

MARSHALL DOSWELL, '42

Marshall Doswell, '42, has become director of public relations for The Springs Cotton Mills, with headquarters in Fort Mill, South Carolina. Previously he had been associate editor of the Rock Hill (S. C.) Evening Herald. He assumed his new position on July 1.

H. W. Close, Springs president, expressed pleasure at securing the services of Mr. Doswell, saying "He is an experienced newspaperman and will be able to combine in his new job a number of activities now being carried on by other departments of the Springs organization."

Mr. Doswell is a native of Richmond, Va. After graduation from Hampden-Sydney and Army service in World War II, he did special work in journalism and political science at Drake University.

From 1948 through 1955 he was a news editor in the Chicago bureau of the Associated Press. In 1956 he became editor of the Covington (Va.) Virginian. Upon coming to Rock Hill in 1957 he served as managing editor and more recently as associate editor of the Herald.

In 1958 he spent three months in Europe working and studying on an exchange fellowship awarded by the International Press Institute. In March 1962 he was honored by the Atlanta Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, for outstanding public service in the field of communications.

In May Mr. Doswell received a certificate from the Municipal Association of South Carolina for "outstanding service in behalf of municipal and local government in South Carolina."

He is the immediate past president of the Rock Hill Chamber of Commerce and has for a number of years been active in civic affairs. He is a deacon, Sunday school teacher, and member of the Oakland Avenue Presbyterian Church in Rock Hill.

Mr. Doswell is married to the former Gloria Virginia Stacy of Gaffney, S. C., and they have three daughters, Julie, 11; Margaret, 8; and Laura, 8 months.

P. Tulane Atkinson has been renamed to the Prince Edward School Trustee Electoral Board for a term of four years beginning July 1. Mr. Atkinson is one of three members of the board whose function it is to appoint members of the county school board.

1908

The portrait of Beverely W. Stras, Jr., retiring chairman of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, was unveiled on July 19 at the commission's headquarters in Richmond. Mr. Stras was honored for more than thirty-three years of service on the commission, the last eighteen of which he served as chairman. Mr. Stras, a resident of Tazewell, was ineligible for reappointment under a 1956 statute. The portrait was painted by David Silvette, a Richmond artist.

1909

The Reverend Lewis H. Lancaster, who makes his home in Spartanburg, South Carolina, spent the summer months in Montreat, North Carolina, and assisted in the school conducted for missionary candidates.

1911

A recently completed project in Virginia is the marking of a number of sites of Colonel George Washington's chain of defenses for the Augusta Frontier against the French and Indians. Five markers have been placed in the line which goes from Winchester to the border of North Carolina. The project is the result of the dream and efforts of Dr. George West Diehl of Lexington, who first brought the matter to the attention of historical societies in the Lexington area. These, with other state organizations, brought the project to completion. An account of the project has been placed in the Eggleston Library.

An export organization has been formed in Farmville to promote the sale of Virginia dark fired and sun cured tobacco in foreign countries. J. W. Dunnington, of the Dunnington-Beach Tobacco Company of Farmville and Blackstone, is one of the directors.

Several letters have been received from members of the Class of 1912 concerning the class reunion in June. Pictures of the celebration were sent to all members. Below are excerpts from some of the letters:

"It was a great disappointment to me not to be there for the reunion, but fate decided the matter for me. . . . I am glad to report that my wife is recuperating nicely from a major operation. . . . I have longed to come back. . . . guess all is left for me to say is 'See you in '72!'" A. M. Larew

"I appreciate very much your letter and the pictures. Charles Saunders and I roomed together at College. I am partially blind and decrepit in other ways, so that is has been a long time since I 'got around'." Francis Moore

". . . Thank you for making possible the banquet and letting us old fellows come back for a renewal of old friendships. The group of graduates I had a picture of I have reviewed from time to time, so had no trouble in recalling all members, which is more than I could do for my class in medicine. Keep the good work going." H. E. Whaley

"Many thanks for the wonderful picture of the graduating class and the reunion group. Wish I could have been with you all. The boys look mighty good at this stage of the game. I will write the boys you listed a card. All were wonderful fellows. . . ." Charles "Yank" Bernier

R. Hunter Barksdale writes: "I was sorry I could not come to our reunion, but I do not drive a car as accidents are so numerous. . . ." With the help of the pictures, Mr. Barksdale recalled most of the members of the class.

"Thanks for the pictures. They were good. I was there, but my classmates looked so old I didn't recognize them. Maybe I looked too young for them to recognize! Sorry I did not get in the picture. . . . I got there late and spent most of my time at the table of that fine roast beef. . . ." W. S. Hundley

H. W. Trafford writes from Largo, Florida: "It was very kind and thoughtful of you to send the pictures of the class and copies of letters from Donnan and Saunders. While I attended the College for one year, I have memories of that period as one of the happiest of my life. Thank you for reviving those happy memories. . . ."

The College is grateful to have reprints of two articles written by Dr. John McGavack of Leonia, New Jersey. These are "Carbon Dioxide and Natural Rubber", which appeared in the May, 1962, issue of Rubber Age, and "The Preservation and Concentration of Hevea Latex," which was in a publication of Rubber Chemistry and Technology in December, 1959. These articles are being placed in Dr. McGavack's file in the Alumni Office. Dr. McGavack is the former technical director, plantations division, of the United States Rubber Company, and his work has been reviewed in past issues of THE RECORD.

1915

Colonel Benjamin W. Venable of Charleston, West Virginia, visited Mr. and Mrs. Macon Reed on the Hill in August.

1916

An interesting feature story appeared in the Durham Morning Herald on Sunday, July 22, entitled "Millstones and Sylvan Tones Shape Home and Works of authoress Ina Forbus". The home, Santa Coloma Farm, is a remote refuge constructed from an unused gristmill that was virtually rescued from the very trees and vines which now enhance it as a dwelling. It is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sample B. Forbus. Nine pictures accompany the article, which has been placed in the Forbus file in the Alumni Office. Mrs. Forbus wrote her first two children's books, "The Magic Pen" and "The Secret Circle", at Santa Coloma, using the time when the mill was still grinding corn and making her characters some of the very animals who are her daily friends.

1918

J. H. Spessard now serves as vice-president of the Peoples National Bank of Central Virginia. Since 1956 Mr. Spessard has been president of Buckingham County Bank in Dillwyn, and in his new capacity also serves as chief executive of the Dillwyn office. The merger of the two above banks took place during the summer. Mr. Spessard is a native of New Castle and received his A.B. degree from Hampden-Sydney. He served in World War I. In 1952 Mr. Spessard became associated with the Buckingham County Bank. He is a member of the Ruritan Club, the Masonic Lodge, and the Commonwealth Club in Richmond. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church.

1919

Walter Blair, Galax, Virginia, writes: "The July RECORD is rich. . . . I was especially interested in the photograph of Hampden-Sydney men of Appomattox Presbytery, as I noted Rev. J. B. Cunningham, P. C. Adams, Graham Gilmer (who was my pastor at Max Meadows when I went to H-SC), Royster Lyle, and William B. Gold."

1920

Dr. John B. Cunningham of Lynchburg was elected moderator-in-nomination of the Presbyterian Synod of Virginia at its annual meeting at Massanetta Springs in late June. Dr. Cunningham, who is pastor of Cascade Presbyterian Church, has been active in evangelistic work in the church for many years, and since 1918 has worked with the choirs of the Presbyterian Home in Lynchburg. He will become moderator of the 1963 Synod.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haile Case of Gouverneur, New York, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Penelope Jane, to Edward Olmsted Henneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Henneman of New York. The ceremony took place on Saturday, the twenty-eighth of July.

The Richmond Area Alumni Association of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity held its annual summer picnic at Moore's Lake near Richmond in July. Judge William Old directed the party to Fort Darling, where he addressed the group on the defenses on the James River during the Civil War.

Dr. Robert C. Ingram retired in August from the United States Army Reserve Corps after twenty-eight years of service. He was on active duty from 1940 to 1946 and attained the rank of Colonel. His service during World War II was with the Air Force.

At the present time Dr. Ingram is Chief, Dental Service, of the Veterans Administration Staff at the Atlanta Hospital. He is engaged in research there and also serves on the faculty of the Emory University School of Dentistry.

William T. Reed, Jr., chairman of the board of Larus & Brother Company, Incorporated, was honored on August 31 for twenty-one years service on the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia. He was presented a certificate of membership in the Telephone Pioneers of America, an organization consisting of persons with twenty-one or more years of service to the telephone industry.

Dr. Harold J. Dudley, Executive Secretary for the Synod of North Carolina, has been reëlected president of the State Council of Churches for another year. Dr. Dudley was recently named to the Committee on Historical Matters for the Synod of North Carolina.

The Reverend Charles W. Kernan, formerly of Richmond, Virginia, has accepted a call to become pastor of the Kuhn Memorial Church in Barboursville, West Virginia. Mr. Kernan conducted revival services at Providence Presbyterian Church in Powhatan County in early August.

The Reverend Thompson B. Southall, Statesville, North Carolina, was recently appointed to the committee on Realignment of Presbyteries in the Synod of North Carolina.

"Implications of Aviation in Teaching World Geography" is the title of an article written by Dr. Randolph Atkinson appearing in the summer issue of Wings Over Virginia, the official publication of Virginia Wing Civil Air Patrol. The article is a part of a paper written by Dr. Atkinson during his attendance at the 1961 Aerospace Education course conducted at the University of Virginia. Dr. Atkinson is a teacher of social studies and a guidance counsellor in the Sunnyside-McKenny High School, Dinwiddie County. He holds four degrees as follows: B.A., B.D., M.Ed., and D.D.

A recent publication of the West Virginia Department of Commerce features attractions along Route 60 and in the area south of this highway. One spot included is the Coal House and Souvenir Shop near Lewisburg. This is the home of David T. Myles, constructed of real West Virginia cannel coal, and the souvenir shop specializes in jewelry made of coal. The history of this house has been reported previously in THE RECORD.

1929

Richard P. Alvey, Jr., has been named chairman of the Commerce and Industry Division of the 1962 United Givers Fund Campaign in Richmond, Virginia.

C. E. "Tite" Turley, football coach at Greenbrier Military School since the fall of 1929 and head coach since 1934, has retired from coaching to devote his full time to his work as Commandant of Cadets.

1930

Construction of a new automated chicken house at Burkeville was completed during the summer. The owner, Elliott Boswell, points with pride to the new 32- by 265-foot aluminum insulated building which cost approximately $40,000. It will house 12,000 chickens. Mr. Boswell started in the poultry business with the old conventional system in 1957. There are now fourteen employees. Mr. Boswell is the proprietor of the Burkeville Feed and Farm Supply Company. His son, Elliott, '60, is in charge of the poultry operation.

Charles H. Robertson, vice president of the Albemarle Paper and Manufacturing Company of Richmond, has been elected to the board of directors of the Southern Industrial Relations Conference. The primary function of the conference is to promote better human relations in southern industry. Mr. Robertson has also recently been named as a member of Virginia's Committee on Water Resources.

The Reverend Ernest K. Emurian, pastor of Elm Avenue Methodist Church in Portsmouth, Virginia, for the past fifteen years, was transferred to the Cherrydale Church in Arlington, Virginia, in June. Mr. Emurian's tenure in Portsmouth was the longest in the history of Portsmouth's Methodist history. Mr. Emurian will be remembered as a raconteur as well as for his religious dramatizations, including the living presentation of The Last Supper and many other dramatic presentations. Fourteen of his books have been published and include plays and pageants for many occasions, stories of national and favorite songs and hymns, hymn festivals, and stories of the War Between the States. He is a member of ASCAP, the professional music writers organization. During his pastorate at Elm Street the membership more than doubled.

Dr. Russell G. McAllister, Richmond physician, attended the twenty-fifth reunion of his class at the Medical College of Virginia in June.

1935

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Fitzgerald and their son of Vista, California, were visitors on the campus during the summer. They also visited relatives in Charleston, West Virginia, and spent some time at their summer home in Monteagle, Tennessee.

Everett M. Owen and his two sons from Richmond were visitors on the campus this summer. Mr. Owen is executive vice-president and director of Davenport Insurance Corporation.

George D. Moffett, Jr., has joined the grandfather ranks. He writes: ". . . I grudgingly conceded first place to Johnny Merrill in the marital sweepstakes when we had our reunion dinner last October. . . . I have caught up with him. Our daughter, Joanne, Mrs. Richard Turner Staunton, of Birmingham, Michigan, has a son, Scott Turner Staunton. At the moment I hold slim hope for his being a Hampden-Sydney man since there are two generations of Stauntons urging him in the direction of Rensselaer Poly. . . . All this adds up to my running a good second in the "Grandfather's Association."

W. J. Rue is now employed at the Hercules Powder Company in Salt Lake City, Utah. A native of Belle Haven, Virginia, Mr. Rue was formerly associated with the company in Radford, Virginia. He writes: ". . . Salt Lake City is a very long way from the Eastern Shore and we miss our family. This is an entirely different world from the one we left. It is a nice place to live. . . . both the newness and the vastness of the place are refreshing. . . . I drop in on Hampden-Sydney every chance I get. The place is changing for the better. . . ."

Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins, Professor of Medicine at Baylor University College of Medicine, Texas Medical Center, in Houston, Texas, represented Hampden-Sydney College at the inauguration of Kenneth Sanborn Pitzer as third president of Rice University on October 10. The inauguration was a part of a three-day academic festival featuring eminent scholars of international renown, held as a portion of Rice's semicentennial celebration.

Dr. Alvin A. Fahrner spent two weeks of active duty for training with the U. S. Navy in Charleston, South Carolina, during the summer. He has now completed twenty-two years of satisfactory service in the Naval Reserve and holds the rank of captain. Dr. Fahrner is a member of the Department of Social Studies at East Carolina College in Greenville, N. C.

The Reverend Royce K. McDonald, pastor of the Enslow Park Presbyterian Church in Huntington, West Virginia, was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of divinity at Davis and Elkins College in June. Mr. McDonald has held pastorates in Virginia and West Virginia. He is chairman of the Committee on the Minister and His Work for Kanawha Presbytery, for the Synod of West Virginia, and for the General Assembly. He is also chairman of the Committee on Christian Teaching for the West Virginia Synod. Mr. McDonald was the baccalaureate speaker for the Davis and Elkins 1962 graduating class.

The Reverend Marvin K. Compher, Elizabethton, Tennessee, was a recipient of the honorary degree of doctor of divinity at King College in Bristol, Tennessee, in June.

The following account is reported in the Presbyterian News, official publication of the Synod of North Carolina: "For one of the few times in his life, the Reverend W. B. Heyward was absolutely speechless at a recent family night banquet when he received a $1,500 check from members of the congregation. Commemorating his fifteen years of service to the Raeford Presbyterian Church, the gift will go into an educational fund for Mr. Heyward's children. . . ."

State Senator John H. Temple of Petersburg, Virginia, has been named to a fifteen-member commission to make a study of state laws relating to mental hygiene. Mr. Temple is one of five General Assemblymen assigned to the Commission.

Dr. Martin Donelson, Jr., Danville, Virginia, has been invited by the Department of State and the United States Public Health Service to head one of the small surgical teams which are being sent to the Republic of South Viet Nam. As reported in THE RECORD of January, 1961, Dr. Donelson was associated in Viet Nam with the late Dr. Tom Dooley. We hope to have a complete report on this new assignment of Dr. Donelson's in our next issue.

Reverend and Mrs. Carlyle A. McDonald were visitors on the campus in August. Mr. McDonald is pastor of the Charles Town Presbyterian Church in Charles Town, West Virginia. Mr. McDonald has been at this church since 1957 and has just completed a new $163,000 Christian Education Building. The building of Georgian architecture was dedicated in May, and according to the pastor, is a reminder of Morton Hall. Mr. McDonald has led all of his pastorates in building programs. The new educational building at New Monmouth Presbyterian Church near Lexington, and a new manse at Prospect Presbyterian Church, Mooresville, N. C., both testify to this. The Mooresville church was named "Rural Church of the South" while Mr. McDonald was its pastor. The Charles Town church, established 175 years ago, carries the names of Charles Washington and Mildred Washington on the original deed, dated February 17, 1787, which hangs in the vestibule of the church today.

The Reverend Arthur M. Field, Jr., pastor of College Church, is the author of an article entitled "A Credo on Adult Education" which appeared in the late spring in the Presbyterian Outlook. Since becoming pastor of College Church in July, Mr. Field has put his "credo" into practice with the organization of two adult study groups made up of members of the Hampden-Sydney community.

The Reverend J. Tivis Wicker was ordained as a minister in the Ginter Park Baptist Church, Richmond, Virginia, in July. After attending Hampden-Sydney, Mr. Wicker received his degree from the University of Richmond and his degree in law from the T. C. Williams School of Law. He served as a navy lieutenant commander during World War II. After six years of practicing law in Richmond, Mr. Wicker attended Union Theological Seminary in Richmond and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest, North Carolina. For the past two and a half years he has served as part-time assistant to the minister at the Ginter Park Baptist Church.

The Reverend William H. Boyd assumed his duties as pastor of the Mt. Pleasant, South Carolina, Presbyterian Church on September 1. For the past three and a half years, Mr. Boyd has been director of youth work with the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., in Richmond.

The Reverend David C. His interest in the rehabilitation of crippled children had begun almost twenty years before the direction of the first county crippled children's clinic at Lonaconing, Maryland.

Dr. Bennett was a member of local and national orthopedic and surgical associations. He held an honorary degree from the University of Maryland as well as from Hampden-Sydney.

Survivors are a sister, Mrs. Mary Vanderhoof of Geneva, N. Y., and a niece, Miss Mary Bennett Vanderhoof of Baltimore. His wife died several years ago. Burial was in Druid Ridge Cemetery.

BRADFORD. Dr. J. Kenneth Bradford, 80, died in Staunton, Virginia, on July 8, 1962. He was eighty years old.

Dr. Bradford, although not a graduate of Hampden-Sydney, has had a keen interest in the College for many years. He was a faithful contributor through the annual Alumni Fund. A graduate of the University of Virginia School of Medicine, Dr. Bradford began practice in Staunton in 1908. He was Staunton's first health officer and served as physician for Mary Baldwin College and for the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind for a number of years.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. India Johnson Bradford; a son, Dr. Joseph K. Bradford, '32, of New Orleans, La; a daughter, Mrs. John Kirk Train, Jr., of Savannah, Ga.; and a brother, Hardie Bradford of Uniontown, Ala. Services were held at the First Presbyterian Church in Staunton, with burial in Thornrose Cemetery.

PEABODY. The Reverend Morris Elmore Peabody, '93, died in a High Point, North Carolina, hospital on June 11, 1962. He was ninety years old.

Mr. Peabody was born in Bainbridge, Georgia, August 16, 1871, the son of Edward Rossiter and Margaret Anne Thompson Peabody. He married Miss Ethel Marguerite Bruce in Avalon, Georgia, on February 22, 1910. He was a student at Hampden-Sydney from 1890 to 1892, and after being a merchant for several years, entered Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, where he graduated in 1900. His pastorates included churches in Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. His last pastorate was in Newell, North Carolina, 1922-34. He then retired to make his home in Charlotte.

ROBERTSON. Alexander C. Robertson, '25, died in Blackstone, Virginia, on June 17, 1962. He had been an invalid for several years.

TALBOT. The Reverend George Bird Talbot, '31, died following a brief illness at his home in Glasgow, Virginia, on June 14, 1962. Mr. Talbot had begun his ministry at the Glasgow Presbyterian Church just two weeks prior to his death. He was sixty-five years old.

Mr. Talbot was born of missionary parents in China. He attended the Shanghai American School. He graduated from Hampden-Sydney in 1931 and received his B.D. degree from Louisville Theological Seminary in 1934. On June 9, 1935, he was married to Miss Mary Alice Wade of Raphine, Virginia. After serving one year in Lexington Presbytery in Virginia, the Talbots went to Peiping, China and remained until 1941. They returned to Virginia and served churches at Elon and Mt. Carmel in West Hanover Presbytery. While there he developed a mission known locally as the "Indian Mission". Returning to China, he was for two years at Tsinggiang-Pun until forced to return permanently to America. For a while Mr. Talbot continued work in the Virginia home mission field, serving as pastor at the Spring Garden Presbyterian Church at Blairs. On May 31, 1962, he had resigned as pastor of the Swannanoa Presbyterian Church near Asheville, North Carolina, and preached his first sermon in his new charge at Glasgow on June 3.

Funeral services were held at New Providence Presbyterian Church in Raphine, with burial in the cemetery there.

Survivors are his wife; two sons, Walter Wade Talbot, Chapel Hill, N. C., and George Addison Talbot, Glasgow, Va.; two daughters, Pattie Bird Talbot and Alice Berry Talbot, both of Glasgow; his step-mother, Mrs. A. A. Talbot, Sr., of Clinton, S. C.; four brothers, the Rev. Addison Talbot, Jr., '31, Roseburg, Ore., C. Finley Talbot, '32, Detroit, Michigan, Hampton Talbot, Ann Arbor, Mich., Dr. William Talbot, Harrisonburg, Va.; and one granddaughter.

ATHLETICS

Preview of Sports

The 1961 football Tigers ended the season in Richmond with a wonderful 13-6 victory over rival Randolph-Macon. Several games of the 1962 schedule will have been played by the time THE RECORD goes to press, and we fondly hope that this year's team will continue to hit the win column. Coach Fulton lost 26 men from last year's squad, and boys like Bobby Saylor, Tim Butler, Bill Sale, Tom Tredway, Bill Heinzer, and Tony Rucker will be sorely missed. The schedule includes five home games in Death Valley and we hope to see you there.

Coach Bill Pegram starts basketball practice in October to get ready for a twenty-game slate. The team again will be without the big tall man so necessary for rebounding, but with Norwood Davis, Bill Hardin, Dave Trickler, Mike Crone, Jeff Bowker, Phil Lotz, Steve Snyder, Henry Pollard, and Ernie Rathman returning, the Tigers will have lots of experience and should continue last season's winning ways. Much help is expected from Ed Whitthoefft and new basketball men—Frank Booth, Allen Blackburn, and Tom Quarles.

The wrestling team will be taken over by Coach Lou Wacker, who replaces Stokeley Fulton as head coach. Stokeley will devote fulltime work to spring football practice and recruiting. The mat-men have Otis Bradley, Jack Romm, Phil Miller, Jack Garrett, Bob Maxwell, Ferdie Johns, and Taylor Cosby returning, and if Wortie Ferrell, Art Matney, and Lewis Everette return to the mat the Tigers will indeed be tough to handle.

The Athletic Department is happy to report two additions to our facilities. The new Press Box overlooking Death Valley is a beautiful brick structure, thirty feet by ten. Visiting press, radio, and newspaper men will have comfortable working space, and John Wilson and Al Smith of WFLO, Farmville, will again be able to bring the Tiger football games from Venable Field via radio to our friends near by.

Three new top-flight tennis courts have been constructed, and we now have six fine courts for the use of our students, the community, and intercollegiate competition. The 1962 tennis team, which went undefeated in college competition and won the Mason-Dixon Championship last spring and which returns intact this fall, will indeed be happy with this fine addition to our tennis facilities.

—RICHARD A. BURRELL, '38

EDITORIAL ADDENDUM: Members of the coaching staff helped get themselves into trim for the football season by engaging in some fierce games of tennis during the summer. While displaying good tennis, the matches seemed to involve the skills of track, baseball, and psychology as well.

"Football Sunday"

Led by their six captains, the 1962 football squad attended the Sunday morning service in College Church on September 2. The sermon topic was "Mature Manhood".

The event came at the close of the first week of football practice.

The six seniors who will alternate as captain of the team during the season are Otis Bradley, Ernie Curry, Dennis Dills, Lewis Everette, Freddie Mitchell, and Joey Viar.

Little-All American Prospects

The two men pictured here are considered bright prospects for Little-All American honors this season. Lewis Everette is fullback on the football team. He is from Danville, Va. Bill Hardin, of Huntington, W. Va., is center on the basketball team. Both men are seniors.

Another Little-All American prospect, pictured on front cover, is Otis Bradley in wrestling. His fabulous exploits have been reported in former issues of THE RECORD.

OF TIMES PAST

The Intermediate Celebration of 1922

Long dead now are the Intermediate Celebrations which used to brighten the winter season at Hampden-Sydney. Not to be confused with the Intermediate dances of the German Club, which still flourish to an extent, they were festivals of oratory, with other cultural features appended.

The Intermediate Celebration of 1922 was held on a Friday evening, February 24. An account of it appeared in the Hampden-Sydney Tiger of March 1, 1922, but a more immediate sense of the occasion may be obtained from a letter, written by one of the participants to his mother, that has just come to light. The writer was William R. Gardner, '24, of Richmond. A large portion of his account is printed herewith:

"It is all over, Sunday is here, and I feel none the worse for an experience of my life that I will never forget and always cherish as an opportunity which I was lucky enough to have (I use the word 'lucky' with its fullest meaning).

"From beginning to end:—

"All five of us orators got into our full dress outfits and into the chapel [then in McIlwaine Hall, of beloved memory—ED.] feeling rather excited, but I did not let that bother me. Before we marched down the aisle the Chapel was filled with people from all over the County besides the student body. Dr. [Asa D.] Watkins [professor of English] was chairman and Mr. [Frederick] Diehl led in prayer (Episcopal preacher from Farmville). The men were introduced and they spoke in the order I have them numbered on the enclosed very poorly printed program—one man was left off entirely.

"My good friend and barber—Mr. "Shakespeare" Morris—was the first speaker. He had a good speech and a wonderful tale but did not know his speech so well. He kept the audience laughing at the improbability of his yarns about this wonderfully strong Peter Francisco, a Revolutionary hero who lived near here. Among other things, he lifted a horse over a fourfoot fence, pushed a wagon out of mud that six horses couldn't pull it out of, and always drank his wine from the bunghole of the uplifted barrel—he was just naturally a horse. [Henry] Bittinger made an excellent speech, knowing it perfectly.

" 'Sue' [Graham] Lacy started a laugh (his mother was here) with 'Ladies and Gentlemen'—while waiting for that to subside he made it worse (the laughter) by pouring out a glass of water very calmly. He had a good speech based on the Wineoak [sic] Indians who first lived about here who felt it their duty to always keep a fire going—'so too did the whites have a flame to keep alive—a spark of learning to preserve.' Therefore H-S was founded and this light has ever burned 'sometimes with a brighter, sometimes with a dimmer flame, from the flickering pine knot to the brilliant incandescent glow.' He referred to Cushing Hall as one of our many dormitories and put everybody in a wonderful humor when he pulled out his key ring on the end of his watch chain as he said that time would not permit him to enumerate further a list of dignitaries, etc.

"After he had finished, the Normal glee club [a quaint way of referring to the musical organization of the State Normal School at Farmville; now Longwood College—ED.] sang another song and my time had come. In as calm as possible a manner I laid my manuscript on the table, faced the audience, and bursted forth. It all came out all right and in a few minutes I had finished and the audience was paying their respects. It wasn't bad at all. I can certainly say I have made a real speech.

"The next man had an excellent speech, very flowery in places and a scathing denunciation of Senator Lodge and his henchmen and our 'contemptible misrepresentative and [at?] the Court of St. James'. He told of H-S in the wars and of the great work of Woodrow Wilson—'a stepson of H-S' who was taught by a H-S man and whose father taught here.

"The old heads said that it was the best intermediate speaking they had ever heard—every speech they said was good. . . . Mr. [Robert] Brock (the lawyer) said that the speeches were the best he has ever heard out here.

"After this the Normal School Dramatic Club gave a beautiful little Colonial play in the gym [rear addition to Graham Hall]. . . ."

According to The Tiger, the speakers and their subjects were W. C. ("Shakespeare") Morris, on "Peter Francisco"; M. H. Bittinger, "The Founding of Hampden-Sydney College"; Graham Lacy, "The Light That Never Failed"; William Gardner, "A Golden Era of a Noble Past"; and Stuart Evans, "Hampden-Sydney, a Champion of Liberty". N. A. Bedinger was prevented by illness from delivering his address on "Patrick Henry, Misunderstood".

Where are these men now? Mr. Morris, final president of the student body and winner of the Bagby Essay prize with a paper on the same subject as his address that February night, died on May 7, 1928, after a long and heroic illness (see the April 1928 RECORD, pp. 16-19). Mr. Bittinger is associate professor of history at Longwood College. Dr. Lacy is pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C. Mr. Gardner is general agent for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurace Company in Richmond, Va.

Century-Old Invitation

The Alumni Office has received a copy of the invitation to the Annual Commencement Party given by the students of Hampden-Sydney on June 16, 1859. The invitation reads: "The pleasure of your company is respectfully solicited at a Party to be given by the Students of Hampden-Sydney College, complimentary to the Graduation Class of '59, on June 16th, at 'Randolph House,' Farmville, 8½ o'clk, P. M."

Managers are listed as follows: D. G. Armstrong, R. T. Baldwin, Jr., T. R. Baxter, C. L. Francisco, Jr., J. G. Hicks, W. H. Holman, A. S. Mayo, T. M. McCorkle, R. C. Nicholas, B. C. Pollard, T. O. Towles, and A. W. Waddell. Attendant Managers were S. B. McKinney, Col. P. A. Bolling, Col. N. Cobbs, S. C. Price, J. A. Waddell, Col. J. L. Hubard, C. D. Anderson, Dr. F. B. Watkins, J. L. Walker, T. L. Morton, Dr. W. J. Eppes, and J. W. Womack. On the back is inscribed "The Compliment of J. C. Deane". Mr. Deane was a member of the class of 1862.

This invitation was a gift of Dr. James A. Christian, '02, Chase City, Virginia. It has been filed at the Eggleston Library.

Interesting Items

► Bertolt Brecht's list of the good things: "the first look through the window in the morning, an old book lost and found, enthusiastic faces, the snow, the change of seasons, newspapers, dogs, debating, taking a shower or a swim, old music, . . . comfortable shoes, to write, to plan, to travel, to sing, to be friendly."

► "Democracy is the worst form of government until you consider the alternatives."

—WINSTON CHURCHILL

► "Liberty is not itself government. In the wrong hands—in hands unpracticed, undisciplined, it is incompatible with government."

—WOODROW WILSON

► "The man who never alters his opinion is like standing water, and breeds reptiles of the mind."

—WILLIAM BLAKE

► "The world's anguish is caused by people between twenty and forty."

—WILLIAM FAULKNER

► "I don't believe in dripping paint onto a canvas and then hanging it up to get acquainted with it."

—THOMAS HART BENTON (anent Jackson Pollock)

► Excerpt from letter of an alumnus, class of 1940: "I do not know what it is about a visit [to Hampden-Sydney]. I always get a spiritual lift. It is most gratifying to note that strangers seem to sense and secure the same inspiration. I have heard and read about this 'THING' for many years. I can attest to the validity of the claim."

► Notice on a church lawn: "Trespassers will be forgiven."

► The American University: "an agglomeration of entities connected only by a common plumbing system."
